The National Judicial College and the Tort Trial and Insurance Practice Section of the American Bar Association are looking for individuals to participate in a mock trial as part of their annual TIPS Trial Academy taking place at the National Judicial College April 15-21. (students chosen will not need to participate in the entire week, but will be given a day and time to arrive and present their testimony.)

We are recruiting 8 lay witnesses (can be from any degree track), 8 engineering and/or physics witnesses (engineering and/or physics students) and 8 medical expert witnesses (med school students) to participate in the mock trial. This is a fun and rewarding experience, the chance to build your resume and to work with the top legal professionals in the country. Past students who have participated in the program have all agreed it was one of the best experiences they have had.

Compensation is provided to those who are chosen to participate in the trial. Each student who arrives prepared with the trial material (provided by NJC) at the designated time will receive $175. If chosen as a witness, each student will also receive $225 for participation.

Spots are limited to 8 students from each field on a first-come-first-served basis, so please call Kelly Zahara, course administrator, at (775) 327-8209 or email me at zahara@judges.org if you are interested in participating.
